THE ILLINI INDIANS

“WHO ARE YOU ?” was the question asked by Father Marquette. “We are Illini,” meaning men, in contrast to the other Indians.

There was a confederation of the Algonquin, tribes of Tamaroas, Kaskaskias, Peorias and Michigammies. They occupied the watershed in central Illinois, along the Illinois River. One of their largest villages was about seven miles below Ottawa on the Illinois River; it consisted of seventy-four lodges, in 1679. Other villages were along the Des Plains and Kankakee Rivers. Six years later their lodges had increased to four hundred and sixty.

They cultivated the meadows raising pumpkins, beans and corn. Many other smaller villages were scattered below where Peoria now stands. One very old one was in Stark County, but none farther south, for the Kickapoos hunted in Henry and Bureau Counties. It was less than a year after LaSalle visited there, that the Iroquois raided their land, burned their largest town and drove them down to the Mississippi River. There the Tamaroas were overtaken and many of their warriors were killed, and about seven hundred women and children were burned at the stake and cruelly tortured. Those who remained alive were driven away as slaves. Although scattered and disheartened, the Illini gradually drifted back to their old home and rebuilt the town. When La Salle collected his Indians around Fort St. Louis the Illini were about one third of the number. On account of troubles at home, La Salle had to leave them; then the Sacs, Foxes and Kickapoos came down from the north. The Illini made a brave fight, but their fighting men were sadly depleted, only six hundred were left. Pontiac tried to make them join him in his war, but they refused; he told them he would consume them as fire consumes the dried grass, but he was defeated and later was killed by a Cahokia Indian. This was blamed on the Illini, so Pontiacs friendly tribes in revenge came down and nearly annihilated them. The few who remained took refuge on the top of Fort St. Louis, where they died of hunger and thirst. Their sad fate has left a memory that time cannot efface, and given to this place the name of Starved Rock. It is considered the most beautiful place between the Allegheny and Rocky mountains. It is now a forest preserve, visited by many each year.

FOURTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY NATIONAL SOCIETY, DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN COLONISTS.

The fourth General Assembly of the National Society, Daughters of the American Colonists, convened Monday April 27, 1925, at 9.30 o'clock, in the assembly room of the roof garden on the top floor of Hotel Washington, Washington, D. C., the National President, Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, presiding.

Prayer was offered by the National Chaplain, Mrs. Benjamin Ladd Purcell. The Salute to the Flag was given and two verses of "America" were sung.

A group of songs was rendered by Mrs. Gertrude Lyons of Washington, D. C.: "Long, Long Ago," "I Passed by your Window," "When the Morning was Red," and "Good Morning My Dear." Mrs. Lyons charm of manner and her delightful voice brought forth a hearty applause from her listeners.

The Credential Committee reported one hundred and one delegates and eight National Officers. Illinois had seven members present.

TREASURER'S REPORT

In Treasury, April, 1925.....	$2,568.60

RECORDING SECRETARY

Reported four meetings held by the board during the year. Caldwell & Co. had been secured as special jewelers; State Regents pins were ready for sale. In Colorado "Daughters of America" can join the D. A. C. without paying dues and that the National By-Laws would be distributed soon.

REGISTRAR'S REPORT

Two hundred and sixty-six lines of ancestry this year had been verified, thirty-six have applied for ancestral bars, three indexes have been arranged for members, and the membership at present is 1,100.

HISTORIAN'S REPORT

The State and Chapter should keep records and report to the National Society. The programs submitted show that the right thought is being brought out in the meetings. Memorials are being promoted, the Monticello project is being revived and the Court House spot at Jamestown is being marked. The year books received are good.

The Chaplain reported two deaths.

The National President, Mrs. Thacher Guernsey, gave the address of the day, and said in part: "It is without effort on our part that we are what we are. We are what we are without being consulted, therefore we should be congratulated because we are what we are. We are like a potato plant, the best of us is under ground. We are bonded together to perpetuate the spirit of our ancestors who helped to make this nation possible. Time will add to their fame as distance permits us to better view the mountains. We are seeking to protect historic spots, to promote true patriotism and to cherish and maintain American Institutions." It was an able and instructive address.

The Vice President for the Middle West Section, Mrs. Edward Schaaf, gave an enthusiastic report of the progress being made in her section of states.

Mrs. Joseph High, of the Southern Section, assured us that the Stone Mountain project would be finished and reported gain in membership.

Mrs. William B. Rand, of the Atlantic Coast, said her states were doing splendid work and Mrs. John Jacoby Read, of the Pacific Coast, reported progress.

A recess was taken at one o'clock for luncheon, which was served in the adjoining dining room. Nearly 200 were served to a delicious meal and a social hour was enjoyed.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session convened at two o'clock and State Reports were called.

Connecticut.—Meetings are held in May and December. There has been a steady growth and good fellowship. For the first time Memorial Exercises commemorating the services of Nathan Hale, were held and a wreath placed on his statue. Mrs. Minor gave a splendid address, subject "Bethlehem," Arkansas.—A Scholarship for the Dunlap School was the out-standing work for the year.

Colorado—has had four Chapter Meetings; splendid papers were written. 400 tubercular boys were given good eats. Voluntary gifts were sent to soldiers and money given to buy books.

California—was organized with fourteen members and made plans for the coming year.

District of Columbia.—We have had a happy and interesting year. Our special interest has been to forward the movement to save Valley Forge. Our membership is eighty-one, and the average attendance is twenty-seven. We gave a scholarship to Georgetown University; helped on Defense Day; celebrated National Holidays; joined with the C. A. R. S. A. R. and D. A. R., February 22, in memory of George Washington and gave a generous gift to Washington University.

Florida.—Meetings are held semi-annually, November and May; each meeting we have papers along Colonial lines. We have nineteen members and hold an annual luncheon.

Georgia.—All our members are interested in our work. A splendid paper on "Early Colonial Customs" was given this year. We have ninety-eight members. A scholarship was given to the College at Macon, Ga., and a second scholarship will be given next year.

Iowa.—A file of our D. A. C. ancestors has been placed in the State Library at Des Moines. We hold our annual meeting in March. Fifty dollars has been given for Valley Forge Memorial.

Massachusetts—has been making a study of Colonial Homes and have had prominent men address them on this subject.

Maryland—has collected maps. “Shot Tower”, a monument of long ago, is to be restored and taken care of.

Minnesota—is specially interested in Colonial spots. A marker was placed at St. Anthony Falls in honor of Louis Hennepin. He was the first white man to come to Minnesota and discovered the Falls in 1680. The power from these Falls has turned the mills which has made the flour and sawed much of the lumber for years for all the world. The Fife and Drum Corps was the music of the day.

Missouri—has 165 members. A year book was sent to the National Society. They hold an annual meeting. St. Louis Chapter held a successful “Baby Show,” though there is not a baby in the Chapter. Mrs. Schaaf is one of Missouri’s most enthusiastic workers.

She has procured many records between 1639 and 1759 and has translated many French books into English. The first two roads traveled by white men have been located.

Nebraska—is less than a year old. They have forty members. The National President was present at the organization in November.

New York.—They are especially proud of their banner and had it on exhibition—yellow and blue; two wide stripes with the insignia on the blue. The New York city members feel that they have been signally honored this year as they have taken part in parades and other public features. They also helped with the building fund of the Cathedral St. John Divine. One subject of this year’s study was “Business Women during Colonial Times.”

Ohio—made a study of the Constitution, held four meetings, have sixty-two members, and are preparing ancestor sketches for filing.

Pennsylvania—has ninety-eight members, two Chapters. “The William Penn” charter has been purchased. The other, Fort Le Boeuf, has a hobby, “The Never Fail.” Unpublished records are being searched for. They are buying land on which Fort Le Boeuf was located; and are trying to do something so those coming after them will be glad that they lived.

Virginia—has thirty-seven members. Holds two Social and two Historical meetings a year. They are restoring many records.

State Regents are asked to send lists of all officers to the Recording Secretary with the list of delegates to the National assembly.

State Regents who know of a list of National Societies which is kept on file in a Library or other public building in the State are requested to send in the D. A. C. name.

The Memorial Fountain in St. Louis, which is to stand in front of the Public Library, started by the Missouri D. A. C., was discussed pro and con, and more information called for. Missouri wishes the National Society to take over the project.

A high tribute was paid Mrs. Schaaf of St. Louis for her unceasing labors in the cause of D. A. C. She was called the "Heart of the Daughters of the American Colonists."

The Jamestown Memorial will cost about $1,500.00. It is an iron fence placed around the ruins of the first Court House of Jamestown. Our insignia, in bronze, is placed on the gate.

The Memorial Bench at Plymouth is a very satisfactory piece of work and at a cost of $767.69, is a monument that will stand for all time.

As per change in our constitution, the same officers were elected for another three years.

Thus closed a very profitable and interesting National D. A. C. assembly.

Respectfully submitted,
MYRTIE T. DIXSON.

MRS. H. M. ROLLINS

GEORGE ROGERS CLARK

WHY had George Rogers Clark come away out here to the Illinois country at such a dark hour in American affairs?

The fighting was on the sea coast; yet there was a vital issue inland for Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry, Virginia's Governor, had become greatly disturbed over Indian massacres on Virginia's western frontier. There were stories that the British commanders at Detroit and Vincennes and Kaskaskia were offering rewards for American scalps and were arming and equipping the Indians for these scalp taking forays.

In the latter part of 1777, in consultation with Gov. Patrick Henry, George Rogers Clark planned an expedition for the reduction of the posts in Illinois, which was carried out the following year.

George Rogers Clark, only a slender youth, twenty-seven years old, mustered his army of less than two hundred men. These men were strong in that righteousness that thrice armed is a man with a just cause, but they were strong in nothing else.

On July 4, 1778, he captured Kaskaskia without firing a gun, and other French villages surrendered at discretion.

On January 29, 1779, Clark met at Kaskaskia the modest little Spaniard, Francis Vigo, who was to bring such good fortune to his army. Clark's troops were without clothing. Their powder supply was low. They needed food and transport. All these Vigo knew how to obtain. He furnished hides for moccasins, cloth for raiment, powder and lead. Clark decided to go to Vincennes. Vigo offered to go as a spy. When he returned he laid before General Clark, whose title then was only that of Lieutenant Colonel, a plan for a winter march against the British post at Vincennes.

Could General Clark re-establish American rule? All went well on the long march thither until the Wabash lowlands were reached. The troops, now reduced to a total of one hundred and seventy men, saw with dismay the neck deep water they must wade through.

Clark had a drummer boy he had picked up at Kaskaskia, because he loved the stirring notes of the drum. He mounted this boy on the shoulders of a six-foot sergeant and ordered him to drum away at "Forward-Charge." The drum did the work, for it plunged the men. We have the words of one of General Clark's own aides for what followed:

"On February 23d, we set off to cross the plain, called Horse Shoe Plain. Here we expected some of our brave men must surely perish, the breast high water having frozen in the night and the men having fasted so long. Having no other recourse but wading this frozen lake we plunged in with courage, Colonel Clark being first. At one o'clock we came in sight of the town. We halted on a small hill of dry land, called Warren's Island, where we took a prisoner hunting ducks, who informed us no persons suspected our coming at that season of the year. Colonel Clark sent a letter by him to the inhabitants."

Through the night the Americans fired on the fort, and such firing. Bullets were not just thrown at the palisades. Tiny chinks were noted and bullets sent through them. It is said that Hamilton himself, opened a small port hole on the morning of the 24th, and projected a small telescope into it. A moment later he jumped aside as the glass lens in the telescope was shattered, then Clark sent in a message that perhaps holds the world's record for sheer nerve and bluff. It went from rifle fighters to entrenched foes equipped with cannon:

"Sir:—In order to save yourself from impending storm that now threatens you, I order you to immediately surrender yourselves with all your garrison and stores, for if I am obliged to storm, you may depend on such treatment as is justly due a murderer. Beware of destroying stores of any kind or any papers or letters that are in your possession or hurting one house in the town, or, by Heavens, if you do, there shall be no mercy shown you.

G. R. CLARK.

To Gov. Hamilton.

Whatever the cause, this most impudent cartel ever sent an armed antagonist brought on Gov. Hamilton himself under a white flag. After a preliminary exchange of compliments, Henry Hamilton, of Canada, consented to the lowering of the British flag at Vincennes and the army Francis Vigo had clothed and munitioned, marched in to run up the Stars and Stripes, 12,000 dollars in Vigo's debt. Thus came American power and the American flag to Vincennes. Virginia ceded the territory to the new National Government.

At the treaty table when Washington's victory at Yorktown was glorified by the setting up of a free American nation, occurred this scene.

"We shall draw the boundary line along the line of the Ohio River," suggested the British Commissioners. "No," answered the Americans, "The Wabash Valley is ours. Our General George Rogers Clark led an armed force of Americans against your posts south of Detroit and captured and held the Wabash Valley to the end of the war. So the territory belongs to us."

And the Americans of the treaty board sketched a line so that it would include what came to be known as the North-west Territory, that is, all of the territory now known as the five great states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

America's title to the pleasant country was not again challenged until the dark days of the War of 1812.

General Clark rushed forward in a war emergency, never thinking of himself or of his after years.

His commission was in the Virginia militia, not in the Continental Army, so he had no means of making a living in the regular military establishment. After Virginia handed over the North-west territory to the federal government, it handed over its interest in that country with it.

The federal government accepted the land, but let its conqueror go. General Clark built himself a cabin in a six thousand acre grant from Virginia in the midst of which he became "land poor."

He never married, but lived alone, and in his old age became stricken with paralysis. He so badly burned himself in his cabin fireplace that his left hand had to be amputated. All he asked in lieu of an anesthetic, was that the band play for him military tunes, such as the drummer boy, Pierre Charleville, had played when he drummed Clark's men into the icy back waters of the Wabash.

His sister, Mrs. Crogan, made him a home in his final years, and at her house at Locust Grove, opposite Louisville, Kentucky, he passed to his reward February 13, 1818, after being sadly wrecked on the coast of old age. Thus passed from mortal affairs a man whose role in the taking of Vincennes would have made of him an immortal figure for all time, had it been played out in one of the Colonies, where the limelight of Revolutionary days beat with its fiercest glow upon patriots and leaders.

Private persons at last rescued his remains from the country graveyard where they had reposed for over fifty years unmarked, and gave them a proper sepulcher in Cave Hill Cemetery, adjoining Louisville.

ROSE MOSS SCOTT,
(Mrs. William T.)

The Illinois Society, Daughters of the American Colonists was organized March 13th, 1924.

The meeting was called by the State Organizing Regent, Mrs. J. E. Robinson, of Bloomington, and was held at The Withers Library; at that time, the board of state officers was elected as follows:

State Regent Mrs. J. E. Robinson, Bloomington.
First Vice Regent Mrs. William T. Scott, Chrisman.
Second Vice Regent Mrs. H. E. Chubbuck, Peoria.
Recording Secretary Mrs. Howard Rust, Bloomington.
Corresponding Secretary Mrs. O. R. Middleton, Gibson City
Treasurer Mrs. Harold Medbery, Bloomington.
Registrar Mrs. Harry Quinn, Shirely.
Chaplain Mrs. Emily Carr, Shirely.
Historian Mrs. Otis Clark, Chrisman.

Besides the officers, the founders included Mrs. H. M. Rollins, of Bloomington; Miss Agnes Hoult, of Chrisman; Miss Elizabeth Hickson, of Carbondale; Mrs. W. A. Hoover and Miss Josephine Hoover, of Gibson City.

Mrs. J. E. Robinson, Mrs. Harold Medbery and Mrs. H. M. Rollins are charter members of the National Society.

Following the founding of this important society, the members adjourned for luncheon, which was held in the Green Room of the Woman's Exchange.

THE FIRST ANNUAL MEETING.

The first annual meeting of the Daughters of the American Colonists was held in Bloomington, March 4th, 1925.

The luncheon was served at 12.30 o'clock, in the Green Room of the Woman's Exchange. Immediately following the luncheon the business session was held, Mrs. Robinson, state regent, presiding. The registrar reported thirty-one members in Illinois. The name of the first chapter was selected, George Rogers Clark Chapter, located in Bloomington. The chapter decided to hold a semi-annual meeting in October, at which time the charter would be closed for the state society.

The chapter accepted the invitation of Mrs. William T Scott, for the October meeting to be held in her home. At the conclusion of the business session, Mrs. Ann Wolford Ridgely, of Danville, gave the address of the afternoon; the subject was: "Foreign Propaganda that is a menace to our National Liberty."

FIRST SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING.

The semi-annual meeting of the Daughters of the American Colonists was held at the home of Mrs. W. T. Scott, Willrose Farm, Chrisman, Ill., the members were guests of the hostess, Mrs. J. E. Robinson, state regent, presiding. The report from the National Society was read by Mrs. Marsh in the absence of Mrs. Dixon.

The state society at this time had a membership of fifty-one, with papers pending in Washington. The state by-laws were read by Mrs. Scott and were adopted by the society. Arrangements were completed for the founders volume to be published. The Illinois members are writing a short history of their ancestry, taking the lineage back to the ancestor through whom they claim eligibility to the D. A. C. These papers will be bound and presented to the National Society. At the close of a profitable day, it was decided to hold the second annual meeting at Peoria, March 23rd, 1926.

Members attending the National Society in Washington were: Mrs. Chas. E. Davidson, Greenville; Mrs. Chas. Marsh, Rockford; Miss Elizabeth Hickson, Carbondale; Mrs. Eli Dickson, Roseville; Mrs. William T. Scott, Willrose Farm, Chrisman, and Mrs. Ann Wolford Ridgely, of Danville.

MRS. HARRY QUINN

MRS. HARRY QUINN.

Katherine Karr Quinn, was born September 29th, 1884, on a farm near Shirley. She is the daughter of Harvey B. Karr, descendant of Sir Walter Ker, who came to America from Scotland in 1685, and Emily Katherine Jackson. Mrs. Quinn's mother's mother was Margaret Thomas, a descendant of the Thomases of Montevieu, Fredrick County, Maryland, prominent in Colonial days in Maryland and Virginia.

Her maternal grandmother and grandfather, Margaret Thomas and Henry Lee Jackson came to Illinois from Kentucky in 1863. They settled at Shirley until they bought a farm and moved to Saybrook, where they continued to live up to the time of their death. Her paternal grandfather and grandmother were Elizabeth Low, descendant of Nathan Low, of Haagerstown, Indiana, and Thomas Jefferson Karr, son of Dr. Thomas Karr, who came to McLean County from Buck's County, Pennsylvania. Dr. Thomas Karr's father was Captain John Karr, who took part in Revolutionary war and War of 1812. Captain John Karr is one of few Revolutionary soldiers buried in McLean County.

Through her maternal grandmother, Margaret Thomas, she is a descendant of Hon. Robert Rutherford, who fought in Colonial Wars and was later a member of the Continental Congress and was prominent in the affairs of the New Republic.

Mrs. Quinn married Harry Bculeware Quinn, December 14, 1904, also a descendant of Colonial stock; to them were born three girls—Theresa Lucile, Helen Katherine, Virginia Carolyn and two boys—William Henry and Everett Karr.

Mrs. Quinn is a member of "Daughters of American Colonists," "Daughters of American Revolution," "Daughters of 1812," and "Order Eastern Star."

She is the descendant of Colonial ancestors in all branches of her family and a direct descendant through male line of Sir Walter Ker. Mrs. Quinn is a pure American through inheritance and environment.

Mrs. W. Otis Clark (Hazel Lowther) was the daughter of W. A. Lowther and Mary Jane Foley. Mr. Clark was the son of William Clark and Margaret Lunger Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark have one son, William Foley, a student in public schools.

The ancestors of Mrs. Clark on the paternal side were of Virginia. Col. Wm. Lowther was first a volunteer at the age of 17 under Daniel Scott, Augusta County, Virginia., later he was Captain of troops in Harrison County, Virginia, whose activities were directed against the Irdiars. He was commissioned Major by General George Rogers Clark in 1781. Later he was commissioned Colonel and assigned to the Northwest Territory of Virginia.

Other ancestors who had assisted in protecting their country were Archibald Morrison, Capt. Andrew More was Lieut. in Revolutionary War and was admitted to bar in 1774. On the maternal side were Rev. James Dunlap and Major Wm. Dunlap; also Thomas Hughes, who was a great Indian fighter.

Mrs. Clark is a member of "Daughters of the American Revolution," "Daughters of the American Colonists," "Daughters of the Revolution," and was appointed to organize the society "Children of American Revolution" in Edgar County.

MRS. EMILY KARR

MRS. EMILY KARR.

Emily Katharine Jackson, daughter of Henry Lee, and Margaret (Thomas) Jackson, was born in Kingston, Kentucky, December 28th, 1856. She was one of a family of seven—two sisters and a brother living: Mary S. Cutting, of Chattanooga, Tennessee; Adaline D. Quinn, of Tempe, Arizona, and George L., of Gold Butte, Montana. One sister—Frances Virginia and two brothers—James Lee, and Humphrey Turnstile, died in childhood.

Her parents moved their family from Kentucky to Illinois in April, 1863, traveling overland in a covered wagon, settling at Shirley, near Bloomington, McLean County, which since has been her home. Henry Lee Jackson, was one of a family of thirteen children. His parents, Humphry Turnstile, and Adaline (Pearl) Jackson, were natives of Kentucky. His father, John Jackson, originally from England, was a Revolutionary soldier and assisted very materially in the early settlement of Kentucky when it was still a part of Virginia. In the wars with the Indians, he was under the command of Daniel Boone. He was the father of Hancock Jackson, Governor of Missouri. His wife, Mary Forest Hancock was a niece of John Hancock, signer of Declaration of Independence. The Pearls also assisted in the early settlement of our country, John Pearl having served through the seven years of war and was with Washington at Valley Forge.

Her mother, Margaret Thomas Jackson, was a native of Frederick County, Maryland, daughter of Lloyd and Mary (Brown) Thomas, the latter a native of Shepardon, Virginia. Lloyd Thomas, son of Col. John Thomas and brother of Governor Francis Thomas of Maryland, was a direct descendant of Hugh Thomas, who emigrated from Wales about the year of 1702, and settled in Pennsylvania and finally in Frederick County, Maryland. His wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Francis Edwards, was maid of honor to Queen Anne. Margaret Thomas, on the maternal side, was a direct descendant of the Hon. Robert Rutherford, who with unfailing loyalty rendered material aid to American independence, as a member of Continental Congress. Also, rendered loyal service to the Colony of Virginia, thereby furthering the establishment of the Great Commonwealth of the United States of America.

The subject of this sketch was educated in the schools of McLean County, has been a member of the Christian Church since girlhood. Was married to Harvey B. Karr, December 17th, 1879, who departed this life May 10th, 1895. Mr. Karr was the oldest of a family of four children, of Thomas Jefferson and Elizabeth (Lowe) Karr, early settlers of McLean County. He will long be remembered, as a just and upright character. They were the parents of four children—Lloyd passed from this life at the age of nine years; Katherine, who is State Registrar D. A. C., wife of Harry B. Quinn, of Shirley; Thomas Jefferson, of Decatur, and Lee Jackson Karr, of Bloomington. She is a member of "Daughters of American Colonists," "Letitia Green Stevenson Chapter, D. A. R.," also a member of "Dixie Chapter U. D. C." "Order of Eastern Star," and "R. N. of A."

MRS. HERBERT N. ROLLINS

Bella Funk Rollins, daughter of Duncan and Elizabeth Richardson Funk, was born in Bloomington, Ill. Her marriage to Herbert M. Rollins took place October 19, 1882. Mrs. Rollins is of New England ancestry. One son, Dana, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Rollins, he lives on the old homestead, near Shirely, Illinois.

Mrs. Rollins takes an active part in the hereditary patriotic societies to which she belongs. She is ex-regent of "Letetia Green Stevenson" Chapter D. A. R.; belongs to "Daughters of 1812"; "Founders and Patriots of America"; "Daughters of American Colonists"; "Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims" besides being eligible to many more.

Her paternal grandfather, Isaac Funk, was state senator during the trying days of the Civil War, and owner of 27,000 acres of Illinois land at his death in 1865. On the maternal side, Mrs. Rollins is a descendant of Samuel Richardson, who settled in Philadelphia in about 1689.

Through the Bevan line, she is a descendant of many English and French kings; Edward I and III, and Henry III of England, and through Emperor Charlemagne of Louis VI and many more.

“People who take no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants.”—MACAULY.

THE YESTERDAYS.

*The great plain was covered with a mass of green,
When they crossed the mountains, a wonderful scene
For the pioneers, who came this way,
To establish their homes in that early day.
Here slept the warriors; side by side they lay,
Mighty tribes have been swept from the face of day;
Their names have perished; scarce a trace remains
On the green bosom of their native plains.
They only win who dare the hero's march,
Courageous, righteous and sincere they climb o'er the torrents
arch;
They turn to the west, surmount the rugged steep
These pioneers who dared, 'till death closed their eyes in sleep.
Did death forever quench their hopes and fears?
Or, may it be that still they linger near.
At times unprofitable toil and rewards were few,
But they wrought mightily, those men who dared to do.
Our debt to them we can never pay.
But with love; record their deeds of yesterday.
In appreciation of those who so nobly wrought,
We should maintain the high ideals of the liberty they sought.
So long as reverence for our Constitution and our flag endure,
So long will our nation be secure.*
